SDE Teacher Certification Director Moves to Higher Ed

(Boise) The Director of Teacher Certification with the Idaho State Department of Education has accepted a new position with the University of Idaho as a Director of Teacher Education and Associate Professor. His duties will begin sometime in late summer.

"It has been a pleasure to work with the great people of the Idaho State Department of Education and Professional Standards Commission, said Dr. Taylor Raney, Teacher Certification Director. "I am excited about this opportunity, and look forward to continuing to serve the teaching profession from this new role. I have also enjoyed working with the new administration since January, and wish them well as they take steps to do great things for the students of Idaho."
